Repository:	Grand Rapids History and Special Collections
Title:	Grand Rapids Public Library oral history collection
ID:	Collection 164
ID [Archivists Toolkit Database::RESOURCE]:	172
Date [inclusive]:	1945-present
Physical Description:	5.75 Linear Feet 17 boxes
Language of the Material:	English
Abstract:	The Grand Rapids Public Library oral history collection contains both oral histories donated to the library and oral history interviews conducted by library staff, the City Historian's office or others. The interviews and recordings of local events date back to 1945. They contain information on Grand Rapids, Michigan history, politics, Native American businesses, immigrants, World War II, the 1911 furniture strike and major natural disasters, such as tornadoes and floods. Synopses are available, but few full transcriptions. This collection was migrated from audio cassette tapes to usage digital files in 2007/2008 with the support of Ryerson Library Foundation Funds.

Biographical / Historical

The collection was begun in 1978 by Gordon Olson, upon his appointment as City Historian of Grand Rapids, Michigan. Some interviews are dated prior to 1978.

Scope and Contents

Contains oral histories donated to the local historical collection of the Grand Rapids Public Library and oral histories generated by the Local Historical Collections Department or the City Historian's office.

The oral history collection is open-ended, with interviews added periodically over time. The interviews and recordings of events date back to the late 1940s and contain many aspects of Grand Rapids history. The earliest include the Grand Rapids Christmas Party in the old City Hall on December 21, 1945, and the 1948 report from Congress by the newly elected representative Gerald R. Ford Jr. Other interviews contain information on past Grand Rapids politicians, migrants to the Grand Rapids area, and major natural events which struck the area. Interview synopses, and/or transcripts are available for some of the interviews.
