Abstract:	The Sophie de Marsac Campau Chapter is the Grand Rapids, Michigan branch of the national non-profit Daughters of the American Revolution. The Grand Rapids chapter was founded in 1896. This is a devised collection created from several found items and small accessions. It contains documents related to the organization, primarily to the Grand Rapids chapter but also to the Michigan and National groups. The bulk of the collection are chapter yearbooks from 1907 to 1964. Other material includes histories, ephemera, scrapbooks, records and Michigan state conference programs. Also included is a card file listing newspaper clippings documenting soldiers who participated in the Revolutionary War with descendants in Grand Rapids.

Biographical / Historical

The Grand Rapids Sophie De Marsac Campau Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution started on May 18, 1896 with just fifteen members. The chapter was named in honor of Sophie Campau, the wife of Louis Campau, who is said to be the first white settler in what became Grand Rapids. Sophie Campau was raised in Detroit, married Louis in 1825, and moved to Grand Rapids with him in 1827. Chapter members Mrs. Henry B. Davis said the name was chosen "to perpetuate the name of a woman of rare grace and character who was held in high esteem by the early pioneers."

The chapter adapted their bylaws and constitution from those used by the Detroit Chapter. In the early years, the chapter focused on instructional programs in schools about patriotism, the American Revolution and the American flag. In 1907, the members restored the gravestones of Lois and Sophie Campau and on June 23, 1909, the chapter started an annual Founder's Day celebration in Grand Rapids in honor of the Campaus. Chapter member Caroline Campbell helped find and restore the first state constitution and helped put the first state flag on display. Later, during World War I, the chapter was active in helping with the war effort, rolling bandages, knitting garments, working with the Red Cross, donating money and sending chocolate to the men overseas. The Grand Rapids Chapter remains active today, and is one of 54 Michigan chapters. The Michigan DAR was founded in 1900, and now has over 3000 members.

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was formed on Oct. 11, 1890. The objectives of DAR remain the same today, and state and local chapters are guided by these objectives. DAR strives to perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American Independence, to carry out the injunction of George Washington in his farewell speech "to promote ... institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge, thus developing an enlightened public" and to cherish, maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom, to foster true patriotism and love of country, and to aid in securing for mankind all blessings of liberty.

^ Return to Table of Contents

Scope and Contents

The bulk of this collection at this time are the chapter yearbooks for 1907 to 1964 for the Sophie de Marsac Campau Chapter. Also included are some state and national Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) materials.

The primary collection purpose of this collection is to document that local chapter and additional holdings are desired which would provide more historical information about the chapter and its activities. Generally, Michigan and National chapters are not actively sought, though they may document the activities of Grand Rapids or Kent County residents who become active at those levels.

Also placed with this collection is a card file with clippings documenting soldiers who participated in the Revolutionary War, perhaps with descendants in the Grand Rapids area, prepared by the DAR. The organization remains active today, including the Sophie Campau Chapter.

The collection also documents some holdings given to the Grand Rapids Public Library by the DAR. Also found is information about Sophie Campau, including two portraits in oil of Louis & Sophie Campau, said to be by Charles Moore, which now hang on the floor that houses the Grand Rapids History & Special Collections.

Appraisal:

Appraisal

Gordon Olson says this was one of the Chapter unsolicited gifts to the library, that did not meet any particular needs or collection policy of the library. However, we may need to keep because it is a DAR gift.

Series VIII. Publications or Projects of the Organization

Scope and Contents

Included in this collection are the revolutionary soldiers service records. They are listed in alphabetical order by last name in a card file. These cards are used for genealogy and include dates of birth, marriage and death along with a list of children of revolutionary soldiers. Some names include articles and information that traces generations of the soldier's family. Also in this collection are indexes of the history of Muskegon and Ottawa counties, along with a book on the history of Fulton Street Park.
