Abstract:	Wayne Vandercook (d. 1995) was an artist in Grand Rapids, Michigan. His papers include some evidence of his art and also reflect his interest in other artists. In addition, his papers include material relating to five generations of the Vandercook family. The family members include Henry B. Vandercook, a Michigan State Senator who is credited as the father of Western Michigan University. The material related to Henry is limited and primarily related to his family and business. Also included is some information on the family business, the Grand Rapids Monument Co., and scrapbooks relating to Henry's brother, Michael, a poet, singer and songwriter who traveled the country from his Allegan County home. The collection includes documents, scrapbooks, correspondence and photographs.

Scope and Contents

The Wayne Vandercook collection includes documents from several generations of the family, which were prized and collected by Wayne. With his death, it appears the collection went to his son for a while. However, with the son's death, it was discarded in the trash, where it was discovered by an antique dealer who subsequently brought it to the Archives.
