Abstract:	This collection is named for the donors/collectors and reflects their historical interests and expertise. The collection provides diverse visual and written information on the history of the Greater Grand Rapids, Michigan community. Some of the stereographic photographs (ca. 1865-1910) included in the collection, may also be found in the books written by Thomas R. Dilley on this historical graphic format. Other original or copy photographs document numerous events, people and organizations, such as area buildings, parades, Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt's visit to Grand Rapids, old transportation forms, weather events, historic businesses and portrait photographs. The scrapbooks found here were created by different individuals or organizations, and cover topics such as manufacturers labels, theater productions and area University of Michigan students.

Biographical / Historical

The Dilleys are strong supporters of the documentation and communication of local history. Since 2006, Thomas Dilley has authored two books about Grand Rapids and Kent County, Michigan postcards, and another about stereocard views of the same area, using images in these publications from his personal collection, as well as the GRPL Postcard Collection (078) and the GRPL Stereocard Collection (076).

The Dilley's images may one day be included in this Dilley Collection where they can be routinely shared with area citizen and other researchers.

In addition to the historical materials which they have begun adding to their archival collection, they actively participate in a number of related local organizations. They are members of the Grand Rapids Historical Society, with Thomas currently on the board. Thomas is active in the West Michigan Postcard Collection. Thomas also serves on the Grand Rapids Public Library Foundation Board. The Dilley's monetary donations to the Foundation have supported acquisitions of additional title for the Furniture Design Book Collection. They have also provided archival supplies, such as plastic sleeves for the ever growing GRPL Postcard Collection. Thomas is a member of the Grand Rapids Historical Commission.

Scope and Contents

The Thomas R. and Debra Dilley Collection at the Grand Rapids Public Library is a relatively new collection, which is expected to provide information on the donors and their family history as Grand Rapids residents. Original and copied materials collected by Thomas and Debra Dilley and given to the Grand Rapids Public Library, primarily from 2006 to present, are documented here. Some earlier gift items are housed in other GRPL collections.

A large portion of the collection is expected to be the historical materials collected by the Dilley's which document the Greater Grand Rapids area. This collecting reflects the particular interests and expertise of the donors, in particular Thomas Dilley, as demonstrated by his publications on area postcard and stereographic photo views.

The Dilley's have been supporters of the Grand Rapids History & Special Collections department, even before their collection was defined. A number of postcards were given in the past, which are currently part of the GRPL Postcard Collection. Those images can be traced through that collection using the Dilley accession (gift) numbers in that collection.
